REVENUE SERVICE.

The Collectors Classified as to Their Efficiency.

Special dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Gen. W. T. Clarke, Special Agent of Internal Revenue, has completed the inspection of a large number of collection districts in the country. The result is most gratifying to the Commissioner. The whole service is shown by them to be in far better condition than at any previous date.

There have been five grades established for Collectors' offices. The official standard for the highest grade is the following: A first-class office is one where officers are honest, capable, and faithful; where the Collector devotes his best energies to the proper organization and discipline of his office, and division or force, and uses every endeavor to collect all the taxes due the Government; where every subordinate takes pride in his position, and is ambitious to excel in his line of duty; where there are no errors or discrepancies in the cash account, where the office is furnished in a manner to preserve the public records, and to comport with the dignity of the Government; where the records are completed to date and without erasures, blots, or any defacement; where records and lists are bound, letter books and circulars indexed, and where everything presents the appearance of a first-class business house. The difference between first and second class is very slight, and in these two classes the majority of all offices are found. Those falling in the second division are among the best in the country.

There are only two of Class 5—the Terre Haute, Ind., District, Collector White, and the Brooklyn District, Collector Freeland. The examination of all offices and of districts has been of the most searching character. The following comprise all the offices reported as first-class, and it is a noteworthy fact that half of them are in the Southern and border States districts:

Arkansas, Wheeler; Colorado, Wilson; Dakota, Pennington; Delaware, McIntyre; Seventh Illinois, Hill; Thirteenth Illinois, Wells; Greensburg, Ind., Cumbach; Indianapolis, Boggs; Louisville, Ky., Buckner; Lexington, Swope; Covington, Holden; Maysville, Blaine; Newburyport, Mass., Dana; Third Maryland, Proud; Fourth Maryland, Brice; First Minnesota, Bickel; Second Minnesota, Brown; First Michigan, Trowbridge; First Mississippi, Powers; First New Jersey, Latum; Fifth New Jersey, Hothorn; Third New York, Max Weber; Second North Carolina, Young; Eighth Pennsylvania, Valentine; Ninth Pennsylvania, Miley; Twenty-second Pennsylvania, Davis; Twenty-third Pennsylvania, Sullivan; District of Rhode Island, Rhodes; South Carolina, Brayton; Second Tennessee, Cooper; Eighth Tennessee, Patterson; First Texas, Sinclair; Third Virginia, Russell; Second Virginia, Brady; First Missouri, Bean; Third Missouri, Osborn; Second Missouri, Harnden; Sixth Missouri, Kelley; Toledo, O., Clark Waggoner; Portsmouth, O., Coates; Marietta, O., Palmer; Cleveland, O., Pettin-gell.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrhs, and all throat and lung affections, and a positive and radical cure for nervous debility, and all nervous complaints after having tested its wonderful curative power in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his fellow countrymen by the press and a desire to reduce human suffering he will send free of charge to all who desire it, and will also send directions for preparing and using it, in German, French and English. Sent by mail by express with a small bottle of the medicine.

Reminiscences of the Second Tennessee Cavalry.

I propose to write a series of letters, which will appear in the columns of the CHRONICLE, commencing with the outbreak of the late unpleasantness, in 1862, and running along through the war until the final surrender. While I am writing these letters, I hope I shall be guided entirely by truth and justice. I do not wish, nor do I intend to suffer myself carried off so as to do injustice to either side engaged in that great struggle. I desire only to speak of my own experience, and what came under my own observation, in my own imperfect manner. While my letters may prove interesting to a portion of your readers they may be repulsive to others. I hope, however, if they prove to be a failure, I will be able to detect it, and can only stop. My motive is to give my travels from home through Kentucky until our arrival with the Federal army. Then the organization of the Second Tennessee Cavalry, and her travels during the three years' campaign.

I will give a short history of the many hard-fought battles it was engaged in—also a brief sketch of some of the gallant boys who fell, and whose bones are now lying upon the battle-fields in Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. There are two principal objects I have in view, and while I may speak of the gallantry of the boys in blue, let me assure your readers I do not wish to speak an unkind word of those who were the gray, notwithstanding I put on the blue in October, '62, and laid it aside in July, '65, during which time I met many gallant boys in gray, both on the field of battle and in prison. I will commence in a short time, and will try to have a letter for publication in the Knoxville CHRONICLE every week, and if any desire to read these sketches, especially those of the Second Tennessee Cavalry, they may do so by subscribing for the Knoxville CHRONICLE. I expect to make mention of all the most important battles, and also of quite a number of the boys of the Second Cavalry, especially Company K, as I was a member of that company. I desire if any member of the old Second may have anything of interest he may desire to appear in these sketches, to write to me at Sevierville.

Stop Drinking Vinegar.

How many young women who have inherited a predisposition to obesity have ruined their health by drinking vinegar to reduce their forms to graceful proportions. Allan's Anti-Fat is absolutely harmless. It promotes digestion, and accomplishes its work simply by converting and assimilation of the fatty ingredients of the food. Excessive fatness is a vexatious burden, and there is no longer any excuse for enduring it, since Allan's Anti-Fat is so effective and so perfectly safe.

Heavy Emigration.

The Memphis Avalanche, of last Sunday, says:

"Three hundred emigrants for the Lone Star State have passed through Memphis during the past two days. They came from Georgia and East Tennessee and were accompanied as far as this city by W. P. Rogers, a Chattanooga emigrant agent. There are four railroad agents, E. L. Sisson, Ben. Neville, W. T. Rogers and H. N. Snyder, at Chattanooga, who are engaged in 'regulating' the 'regions beyond.' They make regular marauding expeditions into Georgia and East Tennessee, and each one of them is good for from 50 to 100 emigrants."

If we are not mistaken we have two of these wide-awake agents in Knoxville, Gaines Harrill and Will. Kerr, who engineer a great many of these emigrants from East Tennessee.

Now is the Time to Subscribe to Frank Leslie's SUNDAY MAGAZINE.

The January number brilliantly opens the fifth annual volume of this most excellent magazine. As it appears in the "Holiday Season," it has the somewhat distinctive character of a "Christmas Number," and the opening paper, "Christmas Carols" (prettily illustrated), by Rev. W. H. Whitrow, is especially interesting.

"Lois," by A. H. Mann, is a very delightful story of Christmas Eve. A new serial story is commenced, entitled, "David Fleming's Forgiveness," which will, it is stated, run through several months. It is by the author of "Christie Redfern's Troubles," and the opening gives promise of thrilling interest in the forthcoming chapters. The pleasant story, "In the Chief Again," is continued. The pages abound with good things, which we can only refer to in general terms. There are short stories of great interest; sketches of famous persons; essays instructive and entertaining; poems, history, science, etc., an admirable sermon by the Editor, Dr. Charles F. Deems, etc., etc.

The present story, "In the Chief Again," is continued. The pages abound with good things, which we can only refer to in general terms. There are short stories of great interest; sketches of famous persons; essays instructive and entertaining; poems, history, science, etc., an admirable sermon by the Editor, Dr. Charles F.
